Overview

This school and others in the Stratford Cluster have a similar approach to how they accommodate pupils with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND). This document aims to provide parents with all of the information they need to understand how their child's needs will be met by both the school, and also by the Local Authority and Special Support Services. At the end of the document there is a glossary to explain some of the terms used, as well as the main people responsible for SEND provision within the school and externally.

The SEND needs that the school provides for

Stratford upon Avon Primary School aims to meet all children's needs and when we need to, provide specific support or advice. We cater for pupils who experience difficulties in communication and interaction; cognition and learning; social, emotional and mental health; and sensory and/or physical and medical conditions. The children require different strategies for learning and need a range of different teaching approaches and experiences. We have access to a range of specialists to provide support in meeting our pupils' needs.

Identifying children and young people with SEND

Teachers identify SEND and adapt teaching in response to the diverse needs of pupils. They set clear targets for pupils and if they do not make adequate progress, the class teacher will consult with parents and the SENDCo to see if a diagnostic assessment should be carried out. Provision is made within the school to meet the child's needs which are different from or additional to those provided as part of the school's usual working practices. The class teacher will keep parents informed and draw upon them for additional information. We record in an Individual Education Plan (IEP) the strategies used to support the child. It shows the child's targets, which are reviewed each term. If after a review meeting it is felt that the child would benefit from further support from outside services, we will consult parents prior to any support services will provide information for the child's new targets. If the child continues to demonstrate significant cause for concern, a request for an 'Education, Health and Care Plan' (EHCP) will be made. A range of written evidence about the child will support the request. Further details of this are set out in the school's SEND policy.

How we consult with families of children with SEND

Parents or carers are seen as important partners in the effective working relationship with the school. They are fully involved in the identification, assessment and decision-making process in the school. They are kept up to date with their child's progress through termly review meetings, parents' consultations and an annual report. If any outside intervention is sought parents are informed. All parents of children identified to have SEND will receive copies of their Individual Education Plans.

Our arrangement for assessing and reviewing a child's progress

Early identification is vital. The class teacher informs the SENDCo and the parents at the earliest opportunity to alert them to concerns and enlist their active help and participation. The class teacher and the SENDCo assess and monitor the child's progress in line with existing school practices. This is an on-going process. If the child is not making the expected progress the next step in the graduated approach is that discussions will take place regarding a higher level of additional support. Individual Education Plans and 'Provision Maps', feature significantly in the provision that we make in the school. By breaking down the existing levels of attainment into finely graded steps and targets, we ensure that children experience success.

Our approach to teaching children with SEND

As the 2014 Special Educational Needs Code of Practice states 'Teachers are responsible for all children's progress including those with SEND'.

We believe in promoting every possible opportunity to develop the full potential of all children.

How we prepare children as they move between phases of education

Prior to the children starting in reception teachers will visit them in their nursery provision and, if needed, additional meetings will take place with the school's SENDCo, external professionals and parents.

The SENDCo will meet with appropriate secondary staff, and pupils will have the choice of extra transitional visits. Some SEND children work through a 'transition notebook' which helps them prepare for secondary education.

How we adapt our curriculum and our learning environment

The curriculum is differentiated to meet the needs of all our children. Some children with SEND need adaptation such as, for example, visual timetables or additional phonics support. We can modify the learning environment to meet the needs of children.

Trained staff who will support SEND children and advise on how specialist expertise will be secured

The school SENDCo is working towards a national qualification at master's level for the coordination of SEND. All teachers are teacher of SEND. Staff receive training to be equipped to identify and support children with special educational needs. Resources are well adapted, modified and used to boost learning. The quality of the partnership and dialogue between support staff and class teacher is of a high standard. Our teaching assistants each have areas of specialism and deliver effective interventions: this may be in Speech and Language, Occupational Therapy, Behaviours that Challenge, Autism, Lego Therapy. The school uses specialists through referrals where necessary.

How we evaluate the effectiveness of our SEND provision

Teachers review the impact of provision for SEND children on a termly basis through review meetings and data tracking. Individual Education Plans are effective in ensuring that individual needs are met. The SENDCo tracks the progress the children have made each term and analyses the impact of any intervention they have had. The SEND policy is reviewed on an annual basis by the SENDCo and SEND Governor and

The SEND policy is reviewed on an annual basis by the SENDCo and SEND Governor and agreed by the School Standards Committee (SSC)

How children and young people with SEND are enabled to engage in activities with their peers

The school is on ground level with no access restrictions. We encourage all pupils to be engaged fully in the curriculum with any adaptations needed. Lesson differentiation and classroom arrangements are used to maximise the opportunities for pupils with SEND to access activities.

How we listen to the views of SEND children and how they are included in the schools anti bullying policy

Every year each class delivers resources linked to anti-bullying week and protective behaviours. In addition to the PSHE curriculum we provide mindfulness time and sometimes yoga sessions. This provides support for children with social, emotional and mental health problems. Our aim is to remove of barriers to learning and participation by establishing a climate of trust and respect for all. The use of drama, role-play and social stories are used to help pupils understand their feelings and express their views. Pupils are invited to tell us their views about a range of school issues through regular pupil questionnaires.

How we involve external support meet the needs of SEND children and their families

Services, including the Educational Psychology services, Speech and Language Therapy, SEND Supported, Occupational Therapy, Counselling and RISE/CAMHS, are bought in when they are needed.

Glossary – notes taken directly from the 'Draft special need and disability code of practice; 0-25 years – April 2014' by the Department for Education and Department for Health

SEND – Special Educational Needs/Disability - A child or young person has SEND if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for him to her. A disability as defined under the Equality Act 2010 is a "physical or mental impairment which has a long term and substantial adverse effect on their ability to carry out normal day to day activities".

EHCP – Educational, Health and Care plans – The purpose of an EHC plan is to make special educational provision to meet the special educational needs of the child, to secure improved outcomes for them across education, health and social care and, as they get older prepare them for adulthood. A request for an EHC can be done by the parents of the child or a person acting on behalf of the school with the knowledge and agreement of the parents. The Local Authority must determine whether the EHC assessment is needed and must communicate its decision to the parents within 6 weeks of making the request.

The Local Offer - Local Authorities must publish a Local Offer, setting out in one place information about provisions they expect to be available across education, health and social care for children and young people in their area who have SEN or are disabled, including those who do not have Education, Health and Care (EHC) plans. https://www.warwickshire.gov.uk/send

Roles within the school with responsibilities for SEND children

Class/subject teacher

Your pupil's class teacher is your first point of contact and will have day to day responsibility to ensure that lessons are planned to address potential areas of difficulty and to remove barriers to your child's achievement. Your children will therefore be able to access the same curriculum as the rest of the class. The class teacher is aware of the school's policy for the identification and assessment of pupils with SEND and the provision it makes for them. Individual Education Plans for SEND pupils are developed by working closely with the SENDCo and support staff on a termly basis.

SENDCo

Your school's SENDCo, Miss Tracey Parton, is a Qualified School Teacher, Deputy Designated Safeguarding Lead, Senior Leader and is completing appropriate qualifications in SEND. The SENDCo co-ordinates the provision for and manages the responses to children's special needs, oversees the records of all children as well as acting as the link with external agencies, parents and other support staff. The SENDCo supports and advises colleagues, monitors and evaluates the special educational needs provision and reports to the governing body.

Headteacher

The Head teacher has the overall view of the school and how to support your child's SEND provision. They look at the budget available to the SENDCo and help to review that. The Headteacher works to ensure the correct support from the teaching teams optimises your child's support and learning environment. They discuss the overall school SEND issues with the Governors and also ensure that the training needs of SENDCo and support staff are met. They will also work to source the very best package of external support for all pupils with SEND.

SEND Governor

The SEND governor has specific oversight of the school's provision for pupils with special educational needs. The SEND governor ensures that all governors are aware of the school's SEND provision, including the deployment of funding, equipment and personnel. Termly meetings with the SENDCo and SEND governor take place.

Specialist support groups run by outside agencies

Local Authority Teams:

• EP - Educational Psychology. Educational Psychologists have expert knowledge of psychology, child development, social interaction, learning, behaviour and motivation, as well as experience of working with young people. • IDS – Integrated Disability Service. IDS provides support for children and young people with physical disabilities, sensory impairments, communication difficulties (which includes children with autism spectrum and specific language disorders) and children with complex learning needs. • SENDAR – This service is responsible for coordinating information and advice relating to the statutory assessment and review processes from across relevant professionals and family representatives. • Speech and Language Therapists - Work with school to provide targets, review progress and provide support packages for children on their case load. • Occupational Therapy - including supporting dyspraxia, fine motor, gross motor needs and those sensory issues linked to an Autistic Spectrum Disorder Physiotherapy – to help children reach their full potential through providing physical intervention, advice and support. • Counselling (Time4Hope) – work to establish strong relationships that enable good communication and effective collaboration to support children with their emotional wellbeing. • RISE (previously known as CAMHS) - A referral for advice can be made via a Single Point of Entry by a parent/carer or school. • Early Help - Meetings are led by a lead professional who may be a trained school representative. It is a structure that supports families by bringing together professional services to meet current needs for the family and child.
